What plugs do I need in Greece?

If it is an electronic device (computer, camera, portable hard drive, etc) it will run on 110-240 current and you only need to use a USA & European 2-round plug adapter. You can buy them for about $1 each in the USA before you leave, or at a hardware store in Greece when you arrive.

Is it OK to bring electric appliances to Greece?

As long as it says 110-240, you're fine. Don't bother bringing electric appliances (especially those with a heating element like American coffee makers, hair straighteners, etc) to Greece, as you will not be able to use them, and electric devices are quite cheap in Greece.

Meaning that you will not only need a plug adapter but also a voltage transformer. Make sure that your laptop can also work on 220-240v with just a plug adapter.

Will a step down transformer work in Athens?

A PROPER step down transformer will have absolutely no impact even on the poorest electrical system (so it will be fine even in Athens where 80% of the homes & apartments in Athens have the lousiest electric systems and the cheapest construction quality in Europe...)
